Action Guide

Natalie Bacon

1. Figure out where you want to be

Natalie talks about how the basis of `intentional living` is having a clearly defined set of goals. Once you have your long and short term goals, you can set about trying to achieve them,

How Does It Apply?

Take some time to sit and think about your long and short term goals. It may be that they are linked – a few short term goals which build towards a longer term achievement. Not write them down below.

2. Create a Weekly Action Plan

Natalie explains how she creates a weekly action plan of a few tasks that she wants to have completed by the end of each week. These help her to achieve her goals and keep her focused, motivated and moving.

How Does It Apply?

Whilst bearing your long and short term goals in mind, start creating your weekly action plan. You can write it down below or use Natalie`s template here.

3. Get Blogging

Natalie describes how blogging was something that she fell into and now loves doing. Is there something that you are really passionate about? By blogging about it you can not only make new friends and contacts, you can also become an authority in your chosen area.

How Does It Apply?

Write down below some areas that you are really passionate about. Now get online and do some research about it. It is something that you think that you could write about a couple of times a week? Keep on this research for about 2 weeks, and then, get writing!
